

BFT-ADVISORY-TRAINING | STEP TWO

AI Academy

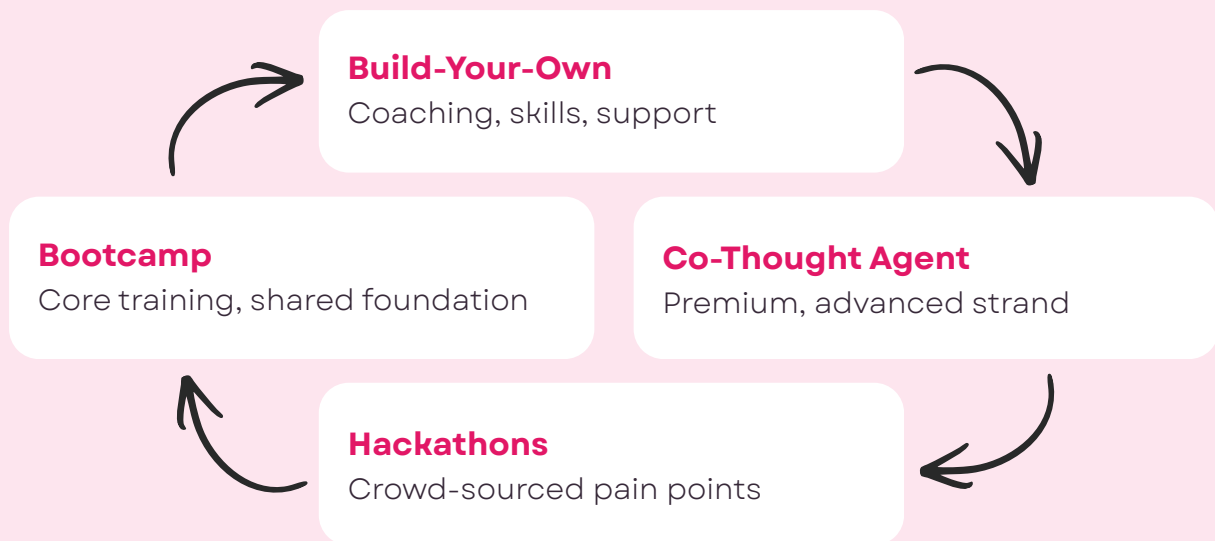

Build the capability to build safely. Then keep building.

Continuous AI and automation capability-building for enterprise and accounting firms, mid-tier to Top 20.

This is where true “growth and momentum happens”.

A bootcamp fades. A capability doesn't, if you keep feeding it.

Most training events fade within months. What actually builds lasting capability is a continuous loop: learn, build, surface real problems, and keep sharpening how your people think alongside AI, not a single day that gets filed away.

Bootcamp. Core AI and automation training for partner firms and employees, the shared foundation everyone starts from.

Build-Your-Own. Ongoing coaching for staff who want to build their own tools, office hours, review checkpoints, real support instead of unsupervised experimentation.

Hackathons. Recurring events that crowd-source real pain points from across the business, then match each one to the right AI or automation solution.

Co-Thought Agents. A premium, advanced strand, developing critical-thinking agents and practices so your people work with AI as a thinking partner, not just a task executor.

From first exposure to advanced practice, in one track

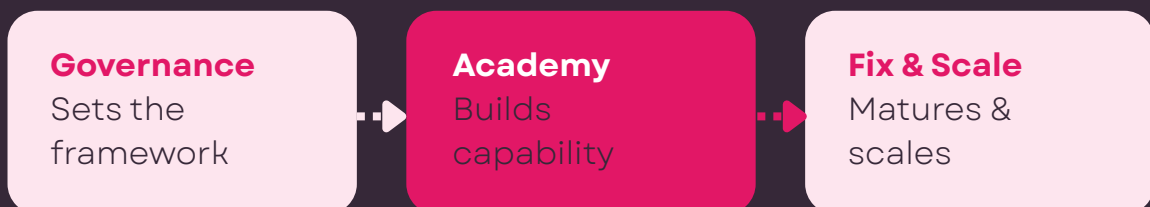

“Learning that keeps working after the training day ends”

Talk to us about building an Academy programme for your firm

Scales from a single cohort to firm-wide rollout across partner networks.

Every tier operates inside your governance framework by default, capability building that's safe by design, not safe by accident.

The BFT Advisory Family

↑ pain points and tools surfaced ↑

Each stands alone. Together, they compound.

Start with any one product as a standalone engagement, or take all three as a partnership package. Governance underpins the other two throughout, nothing gets built in Academy or scaled in Fix & Scale outside its framework.